

ROCKPOOL BAR & GRILL HOUSE RULES

Best manners and temperance are expected at all times.

Don't look fiercely at people, or talk loudly or harshly, but cultivate a smiling countenance and a quiet, but firm tone of speech.

Gentlemen, don't approach ladies; and if you are so lucky to have one approach you, endear her as you would your mother.

No hooting, no hollering.

Don't bring yourself into prominence before a crowd at the bar. Be polite and approachable, but let them advance to you.

Gentlemen, don't interrupt or join any conversation, but if it is general you may seem interested.

Leave your attitude, with your hat at the door.

Back slapping after six drinks should be tempered with mercy.

Remember, nothing is on the house but the roof.

And before you ask....

There are 2682 Riedel Riesling glasses in our chandelier; yes, it is purely ornamental; yes, we clean it regularly, (using a ladder- the old fashioned way!); and no, Sydney is not on an active geological fault line and thus you are not at risk whilst sitting at the bar....

We are still heartily of the opinion that decent libation supports as many million lives as it threatens; donates pleasure and sparkle to more lives than it shadows; inspires more brilliance in the world of art, music, letters, and common ordinary intelligent conversation, than it dims.

INTRODUCING OUR SPIRIT SELECTION

We search high and low for our spirit selection, so that our guests may experience something new and interesting every time they visit our bar. We trawl auction houses, wine merchants and the internet in quest of rare and specialty spirits from around the world.

Our selection will be an ever changing being, as we strive to keep it fresh and up to date, whilst always challenging your palates to try something new.

We hope that you enjoy the fruits of our research...

VODKA

Vodka is perhaps the simplest of all spirits, made for hundreds of years throughout Eastern Europe. Vodka may be made from any source of starch, though it is most made from wheat or rye – which is malted and mashed, then left to ferment. The ferment is then run through a still several times, to higher and higher strengths of alcohol, evaporating all impurities (otherwise known as congeners) until it reaches a sufficient purity. It is then filtered and watered down to around 40% alcohol, ready to be mixed with anything and everything.

GIN

Derived from the Dutch spirit Genever, this famous incarnation made its way across the English Channel to ravage 1700s London. Gin is made by infusing a grain alcohol with "botanicals" such as juniper, citrus peels and various other flavourings and re-distilling by various means. While juniper is the predominant flavouring, each brand has their own special recipe using all sorts of other botanicals.

The London Dry style is a crisp, citrus and juniper-lead gin. Distilled gin, a relatively new category, often introduces interesting aromatics to their makeup, such as fresh grapefruit zest, cucumber and rose petal.

WHISKY & WHISKEY

SINGLE MALTS

A single malt whisky is one that is produced only from malted barley at one single distillery. Since The Glenlivet released the first legal single malt in 1824, the category has developed a cachet of elegance and complexity that has never wavered. The great beauty of malt whisky lies in the fact that there are so many different styles and flavour characteristics within the category. We've searched high and low to bring you a unique and evolving whisky collection.

EXCLUSIVE AND RARE WHISKYS

30ML/45ML MEMBERS

Through our partnership with the Scotch Malt Whisky Society, we are happy to offer a selection of rare and exclusive single malts: single barrel, non-chill filtered, cask strength, from some of Scotland's finest producers. Our knowledgeable staff can help decipher the whimsical names and explain the origins of these high quality tipples.

ISLAY AND THE ISLANDS

30ml

The most distinctive and complex whiskies of all are those that hail from Islay, an island located just off the west coast of the mainland. They are known for their strong peatiness, backed up by coastal influences such as sea air, iodine and seaweed. All along and up the coast the harsh environs take hold of the whiskies, from Arran to Orkney, creating robust, warming drams, perfect for the hip flask on that trek to the end of the Loch.

For the 17 years before its closure in 1983 Port Ellen created some of the best made whisky in all of Scotland. The 14th release of this fabled malt exhibits toasted nut quality and exceptionally balanced oak and warm peat. Rare and delicious.

HIGHLANDS AND SPEYSIDE

3 OML

These are epitomised by those from its famous sub region known as Speyside, which has the highest concentration of malt distilleries; over half of those throughout Scotland in fact. Because they cover such a wide region, the styles vary greatly, but quite often they tend to be light to medium bodied, showing grassy and floral notes, dried fruit and heather honey, backed up by tones of orchard fruits and spice.

BOURBON 30ml

Bourbon takes its name from Bourbon County, Kentucky, once the major transshipment site for distilled spirits heading down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans. Barrels shipped from its ports were stamped with the county's name, and Bourbon and whiskey soon became synonymous. A Congressional proclamation issued in 1964 declared Bourbon an ‘All American product’, whereby strict laws governing its production came into force. 51 percent of the grain used in making the whiskey must be corn; must be aged for a minimum of two years in new charred oak barrels and nothing can be added at bottling except spring water. Though technically bourbon can be made anywhere, Kentucky is the only state allowed to put its name on the bottle.

RYE WHISKEY

30ml

In the United States, “rye whiskey” is, by law, made from a mash of at least 51% rye. (The other ingredients of the mash are usually corn and malted barley.) Rye whiskey was the prevalent whiskey of the North-Eastern States, especially Pennsylvania and Maryland, but largely disappeared after Prohibition. One to have withstood the post-prohibition years is the mercurial Rittenhouse, whilst New York based Tuthilltown Spirits is the first newcomer to this category since the 21st Amendment took effect in 1933.

WORLD WHISKEY

It shouldn't come as a surprise that countries other than Scotland have been making brilliant whiskey for several decades. Whether you like the tradition and pride of Irish whiskey or the analytical approach taken by the Japanese in order to mimic the Scottish styles or our very own world class Australian malts, we have collected our favourites and added a few odd balls from across the continents.

IRISH WHISKEY

30ML

From just across the water comes a completely different dram all together: The Irish Pure Pot Still. Made in just a handful of distilleries these days, the Irish were responsible for one of the liquor industry's greatest breakthroughs: Continuous Distillation. This meant that a spirit could be produced faster, in higher volumes and with greater purity than its counterparts to the east. The result is a lighter, malty, smooth and at times honeyed spirit.

CANADIAN WHISKY

30ml

Canadian distillers make predominantly rye based whiskies also. The distillers can also age their whiskies in sherry or assorted fruit wine casks to bolster their particular flavour profile. The resultant spirit is smooth with a lighter body than the spicy, complex straight American rye style.

AUSTRALIAN WHISKY

Australian distillers are making quite an impression on the global stage, producing spirit to rival some of the world's finest producers. None more so than whisky makers from places like Sullivans Cove, Belgrave, Lark, Overeem, and Nant.

RUM/RON/RHUM

Even though the Caribbean is undoubtedly the spiritual and cultural home of rum, the category has no appellation and can therefore be made anywhere that sugar cane is grown. Molasses— the fermentable by-product of sugar production, is believed to have first been discovered by the slaves who worked the cane fields of the Caribbean soon after Columbus brought the first cuttings of the grass to Hispaniola, present day Haiti, in the late 15th century.

This single barrel 30 year-old rum which was distilled in 1988 is the oldest rum from Flor de Caña to date. Matured in ex-bourbon, it is bottled at 80 proof. The name of the rum pays homage to the five generations of the Pellas family who have overseen the brand since its inception in 1890. There were only 411 bottles of V Generaciones produced, and we are lucky enough to have two of the few that made it to Australia. The bottle is topped with actual volcanic stone from San Cristóbal, the highest volcano in Nicaragua. Deep notes of tropical fruit and cocoa on the nose, with swirls of burnt brown sugar, cherry and orange on the palate.

TEQUILA

Tequila is made from the distilled juice of the blue agave. The heart of the plant, known as the piña, is the main source of the fermentable sugars necessary to make tequila. Tequila is categorised by the level of agave it contains and the amount of time it is aged, whereby 100% Blue Agave is regarded as the finest. Silver tequila, also known as Plata or Blanco, is generally aged for less than 3 months and bottled immediately. Those silver tequilas that are 100% agave show the true flavour components of the plant more than any other tequila category – peppery, spicy and perfect for cocktails. The aged varieties exhibit more complex spice and richer flavours; Reposado (meaning ‘rested’) and Añejo (meaning ‘aged’). Both take on more characters from barrelling and show tones of vanilla, caramel, nut and spice.

THE TEQUILA VALLEY

30ML

The area surrounding the town of Tequila features fertile dark brown earth. The tequila produced from distilleries that source Agave from this area tends to be earthy, vegetal and herbaceous when bottled young.

COGNAC

30ML

Cognac is the most famous and revered of all the world's brandies, produced under very strict guidelines in only six designated sub regions within the area of Cognac. The best ones hail from a small area in the centre of Cognac, known as Petite and Grande Champagne. However, each sub region of Cognac has its own recognisable style. Cognac is primarily made from the Ugni Blanc, Folle Blanche and Colombard grapes; it is double distilled in pot stills; and is aged in French 'Limousin' oak. The relative qualities of cognacs depend on the length of time they have been aged. Classifications range from VS (Very Superior), which may contain brandies as young as three years old. The next is VSOP (Very Superior Old Pale) where the youngest spirit has spent at least five years in wood. Cognacs with a minimum of six years in their blends may be called XO.

ARMAGNAC

30ML

Armagnac hails from the Gascony region in south west France. There are three main areas of production within this region – Bas Armagnac, Tenareze and Haut Armagnac, of which the first is considered the best. Main differences between Armagnac and Cognac include: Cognac is largely made from the ugni blanc grape whereas the base wine of Armagnac is made from several local varieties; it is aged in a local black oak and not in limousin oak as Cognac is; the continuous still is used as opposed to the pot still; it is generally more fragrant, showing more biscuit and violet characters, while also being drier because it isn't adjusted with sugar like many cognacs.

GRAPPA/MARC

3OML

Grappa is the national brandy of Italy. It is distilled from the skins, pips, and stalks of grapes. Sometimes known as Pomace Brandy, young grappa is very fiery, but it mellows when matured in wood. The French also produce a pomace brandy, known as Marc. This method of brandy making spread throughout neighbouring Central Europe.

PISCO

3OML

Pisco is South American brandy but is probably more akin in flavour and body to white tequila and possibly Cachaça. Debate still rages as to whether its origins lie in Chile or Peru, its two main centres of production. Its etymology lies in the Quechuan Indian language of Peru and Bolivia, and from the traditional terracotta pots used for aging the spirit, also called Piscos. Made from aromatic varieties of muscat grapes, Peruvian Pisco stays as true to tradition as possible, nowadays aged in stainless steel vats, so that oak plays no part in the aging process, resulting in a clear clean and pungent spirit, perfect for mixing with a wide range of fruits and juices.

APERITIF & DIGESTIF

DIGESTIF

A digestif is an alcoholic beverage designed to be drunk after a meal. The term digestif can be wide sweeping and generic, often overlapping the sections outlined in this menu, with common digestifs being Cognac, Grappa, Eau de Vie and even aged quality Rums and Tequila. Some liquors, however, are taken specifically for their calmative qualities, and their abilities to aid digestion after a meal. Often these contain higher levels of alcohol, and are quite herbaceous and often bitter/bittersweet, commonly referred to in Italy as Amari, and others have high levels of sugar, with a smooth, velvet-like mouth-feel.

APERITIF & DIGESTIF

During the late 18th Century, absinthe was very much de rigueur amongst French bohemian society. Absinthe is a highly alcoholic beverage containing aniseed and wormwood, Artemisia Absinthium, a hallucinogenic herb that lead to the downfall of Vincent Van Gogh, among many others. The volatile nature of absinthe was clearly illustrated by the fire at the Pernod factory in August 1905 that took four days to extinguish, one of the protagonists of the temperance movement leading to the ban of absinthe in 1915, a ban that lasted up until the 1990s in Australia.

In 1932, without the aniseed elixir to sate his needs, the industrious Paul Ricard created a new wormwood-free subspecies of liquor: Pastis. Most popular in the southern regions of France, in particular Marseilles, modern day pastis is predominantly flavoured with star anise, can often include cardamom, tarragon, liquorice root, and must contain at least 100g of sugar.
