REGIONAL SPOTLIGHT — BORDEAUX

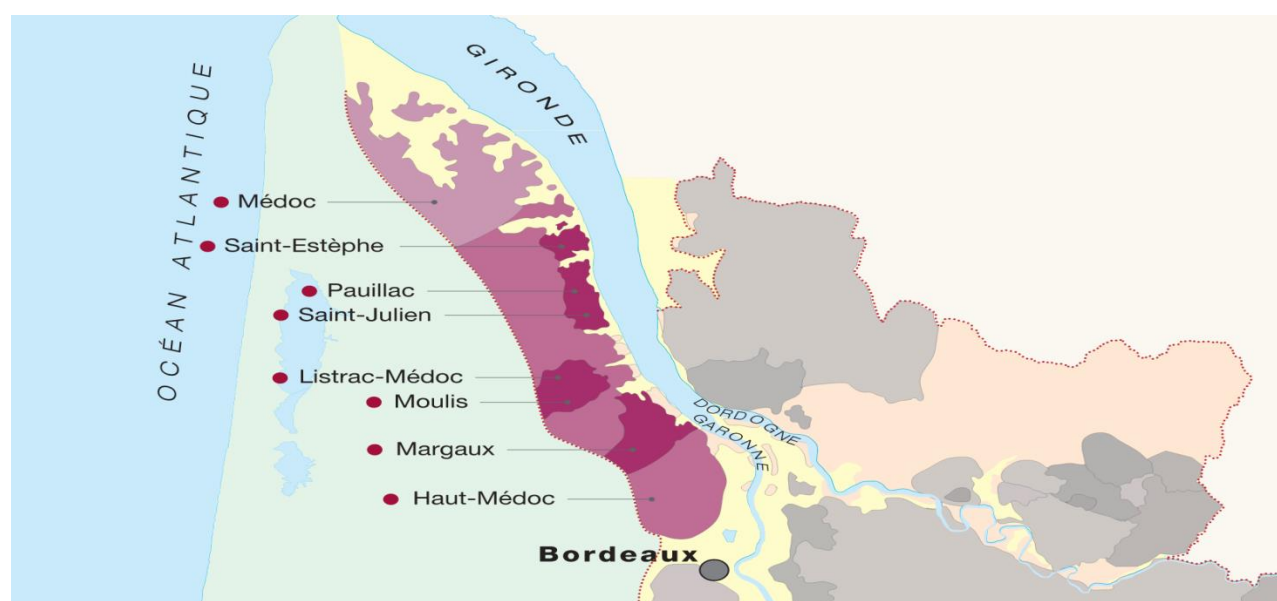

The Bordeaux wine region is located in the south-west part of France in direct proximity to the Atlantic Ocean and with 120,000 ha under vine it is the largest wine growing region in France, only surpassed by the Languedoc region in terms of production. Large quantities of everyday table wine, often called ‘Claret’ by the British, to some of the most prestigious and expensive red, white and sweet wines in the world, are produced here. It is one of France’s most important fine wine regions which has been so widely covered, studied, dissected, discarded, rediscovered, fought over, loved and despised. We believe it is time for a fresh look and we could not say it better than Jane Anson in her newest book on Bordeaux ‘Inside Bordeaux’ (The châteaux, their wines and the terroir): “Bordeaux is so familiar to us that we almost stop seeing it. We have become so used to the blanket depiction of ‘good’ and ‘bad’ vintages (okay, ‘best ever’ and ‘challenging’), Left Bank or Right Bank, that we forget one of the true delights of Bordeaux, its diversity, size and scope. I believe we have been overlooking many of the key things that will allow us to engage with Bordeaux afresh, and with renewed interest.”

Please note that all of the below wines have been shipped by our importer ex-châteaux straight into our Rockpool cellars.

1855 CLASSIFICATION

The Haut-Médoc covers a narrow corridor of land on the left bank of the Gironde in the southern Médoc. The best vineyards are characterized by well drained gravelly soils, perfectly suited to the cultivation of Cabernet Sauvignon. The Dutch unearthed gravel mounds (croupes) during their drainage work in the 1600’s, and the better châteaux are usually located upon these deeper banks of gravel, primarily located within the communes of Saint-Estèphe, Pauillac, Saint-Julien, Listrac-Médoc, Moulis-en-Médoc and Margaux. Thus, the Haut-Médoc and its commune appellations are home to some of the world’s most distinguished, pedigreed producers of Cabernet Sauvignon-based wines, enshrined in the famous, enduring 1855 Classification of Bordeaux. Commissioned by Emperor Napoleon III and carried out by the region’s brokers (courtiers), this classification ranked the top properties of Bordeaux by price to international exposure at the Universal Exposition in Paris later that year. All classified châteaux (60) were from the Médoc, except for Château Haut-Brion in Graves (1), located south of the town of Bordeaux. All were categorised into first through to fifth growths. The last amendment to the classification took place in 1973.

FRANCE, BORDEAUX — SAINT-ÉSTEPHE

75ML / 150ML / 750ML

Saint-Éstephe is the northernmost commune appellation in Haut-Médoc. The wines tend to be rich and robust, with strong tannins that confer long ageing potential. The clay in the subsoil makes for a powerfully tannic character and until recently meant that the tannins were often a touch rustic compared to Pauillac and Saint-Julien. Smarter viticulture plus a better matching of grape to soil has helped smooth the edges and this is easily one of the most exciting places in the Médoc right now. Saint-Éstephe does not contain any first growths and it hosts only five classified growths overall.

2000 Montrose

2nd Growth

139 / 268 / 1,335

63% Cabernet Sauvignon / 31% Merlot / 6% Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot

95ha are located within a single plot around the château. 40% of the entire production goes into the 1st wine and 30% each into the 2nd wine (La Dame de Montrose) and the 3rd wine (Tertio de Montrose). The total average annual production is 320,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

Etienne Dumoulin, owner of Château Calon-Ségur, bought the land that would house Château Montrose in 1778, but it was his son Théodore who would first recognize its potential for great wines. He broke ground on the Château building in 1815 and planted a few hectares of vines in the years to follow. By 1855 its reputation was sufficiently established to gain the status of second growth. After his death his children decided not to carry his passion forward and sold the estate 5 years later to the Charmolüe family that controlled the estate throughout the 20th century until it was sold to French billionaires Martin and Oliver Bouygues in 2006.

Particularities of place:

The Château itself lies in view of the Gironde, with its vineyards sloping down toward the river's water's edge, which provides breezes that keeps the vines healthy and vine diseases at bay. Unusually for the Médoc, its vines lie within one single parcel! The vineyard is divided into 110 plots with 26 different micro climates which govern picking dates and vineyard work throughout the year. Since 2019 all 95ha are farmed organically.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

A classic, muscular and long-living interpretation of the appellation that comes from its deep gravel slopes. 2000 was considered as the best vintage since 1990. The wines are rich, tannic and deeply coloured. Many wines remained foursquare for a number of years, but they are softening very beautifully today. Try with Rockpool's more flavoursome cuts such as Sirloin, Rib Eye & T-Bone in order to absorb the richer tannin structure of the wine.

For further vintage and producer selections from the commune of Saint-Éstephe please refer to page 121.

PREMIUM WINES BY THE GLASS

FRANCE, BORDEAUX — PAUILLAC

75ML / 150ML / 750ML

Pauillac wines are deeply coloured, powerful, well-structured. You can feel those tannins pulsating in the glass in the very best years, mainly because Cabernet Sauvignon is dominant in most of the top wines. This means that they last, perhaps the longest of all Bordeaux wines, developing an extremely complex aromatic palate as they age. The high density of plantings gives a further concentration to the grapes, and you can expect relatively long macerations – again to focus on structure. All of which is why long barrel-ageing is needed to soften the tannins that all have worked so hard to maximise. Pauillac boasts three first growths: Château Lafite-Rothschild, Château Mouton-Rothschild, Château Latour.

2015 Lynch-Bages

5th Growth

105 / 205 / 1,030

70% Cabernet Sauvignon / 24% Merlot / 4% Cabernet Franc / 2% Petit Verdot

100ha. 60 - 65% of the entire production goes into the 1st wine and 35 - 40% goes into the 2nd wine (Echo de Lynch-Bages). The total average annual production is 450,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

The Cazes family has been continuous resident at the estate since 1930, first renting, then buying the estate in 1939. The estate was named after Irishman Thomas Lynch from Galway, who owned the estate during 1749 till 1824. At the time of the 1855 classification Lynch-Bages was known as Jurine-Bages, owned by a Swiss Wine Merchant by the name of Sebastien Jurine. Jean-Charles Cazes took over as Director from his father Jean-Michel in 2006 (who is still a big presence) along with family board members.

Particularities of place:

The vineyards at Lynch-Bages have always been an exceptional piece of land; but it has only been in recent decades that the Cabernet-dominated muscles and nuanced layers of black fruits, tobacco, cedar and slate have been consistently displayed, vintage after vintage. From 2009 the team has been mapping the vineyards at an extremely detailed level with the help of drones, satellites and GPS. Through the process five main soil types have been identified. Predominantly Garonne gravel, with some areas of sand and loam, with clay and limestone in the subsoil on a limestone bedrock. The average age of the vines is generally 30 years, with some even being 90 years old.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

Vintage 2015 showed excellent quality across Bordeaux, a sunny and dry year with good quality and quantity. It is a vintage that packs considerable power but is also a vintage of great beauty. At Lynch-Bages the aim is to combine power and muscle with concentration and charm. At eight years of age, this wine is still in its youthful stage with very little development related to fruit quality and colour, showing notions of Creme de Cassis, plum preserves and Morello cherries plus a suggestion of cardamom, Indian spices, graphite, camphor and tobacco leaf. The palate is taut, firm, but encompassing tannins and loads of mineral and savoury layers. Try with Rockpool's more flavoursome cuts such as Sirloin, Rib-Eye & T-Bone in order to absorb the firmer tannin structure and powerful nature of the vintage.

For further vintage and producer selections from the commune of Pauillac please refer to page 122.

PREMIUM WINES BY THE GLASS

FRANCE, BORDEAUX — SAINT-JULIEN

75ML / 150ML / 750ML

Saint-Julien's stylistic signature is one of the most balanced of all the Médoc commune appellations, with bags of character and finesse. Cabernet Sauvignon is dominant, with all that entails in terms of black-fruit notes, tobacco, liquorice, truffle as it ages. A great Saint-Julien doesn't have the concentration of Pauillac, or even Pomerol, but it does have every bit the same persistence and complexity. It simply takes a less obvious route. Saint-Julien produces less wine than the other communes, but the quality is very good as approximately 80% of the appellation is classified as 'cru classé' wine. There are no first growths, but St-Julien has five second growths, including the "super-second" of Château Léoville Las-Cases and Château Ducru-Beaucaillou. Both can produce wine on par with premier cru estates.

2015 Léoville-Poyferré

2nd Growth

74 / 138 / 690

65% Cabernet Sauvignon / 26% Merlot / 6% Petit Verdot / 3% Cabernet Franc

80ha. 55% of the entire production goes into the 1st wine and 45% into the 2nd wine (Pavillon de Léoville-Poyferré). Average annual production is 380,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

Léoville-Poyferré was part of the original domain that was established in 1638 and then splintered from the Marquis de Las-Cases holdings in 1840. Divided by the marriage of the marquis' sister to the Baron de Poyferré. The property was eventually acquired by its current owners the Cuvelier family in 1920. Didier Cuvelier has handed over the reins to his niece Sara Lecompte-Cuvelier in 2017.

Particularities of place:

The plots of land for Poyferré are split up across much of St-Julien, giving the most complex and varied terroir encompassing clay, sand and gravel. The grape picking dates tends to be the latest of all neighbours. Also worth noting is, that renowned wine consultant Michel Rolland has been employed here since the mid-1980's.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

Stylistically, one can expect the most voluptuous and modern style of wine of the three Léovilles (-Las Cases & -Barton), with the highest proportion of Merlot in the blend – although Cabernet still dominates. 2015 was an excellent vintage across all of Bordeaux appellations with a dry and warm season that further emphasises on the rich and opulent character of Léoville-Poyferré. The plush and luxurious texture of this wine makes it a perfect pairing partner with our more marbled steak options, any cuts within our David Blackmore Wagyu or Mishima selection or our fattier cuts such as the Eye Chuck or Rib-Eye steaks.

For further vintage and producer selections from the commune of Saint-Julien please refer to page 123.

Margaux is the largest communal appellation of the Haut-Médoc and is spread throughout five villages: Soussans, Margaux, Cantenac, Labarde and Arsac. The village of Margaux itself rests on thin, sandy gravel deposited over limestone, although the mounts in this appellation are typically shallow in comparison with those of St-Julien or Pauillac. Overall the appellation contains a greater diversity of soil types than its northern counterparts, with more clay in the outlying areas. Margaux has the largest number of classified growths than any other commune and 1855-classified estates at all ranks, 21 in total, and includes one first growth, Château Margaux. Although Margaux's second growths are often underperformers, the third growth Château Palmer is an excellent estate, commanding high prices. Margaux is often called the most feminine of the Médoc appellations, Margaux at its best makes sculpted wines that age beautifully, with a finesse and aromatic richness that makes their intensity hidden rather than overt. Usually a little less Cabernet Sauvignon in the blend here than in Pauillac or St-Julien, but it's still almost always – and increasingly so – in the majority, with Merlot rarely making up more than 30 per cent.

1998 Dauzac

5th Growth

49 / 87 / 435

58% Cabernet Sauvignon / 40% Merlot / 2% Petit Verdot

28.5ha. 60% of the entire production goes into the 1st wine, 40% into the 2nd wine (Gassies, that was called Chevalier de Rauzan-Gassies until 2009). The estate also makes a Rosé de Rauzan-Gassies. Average annual production is 160,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

There aren't many 1855 estates that are still both family-owned and run directly by family members, which makes Rauzan-Gassies something worth celebrating. The two Rauzan (the other being Rauzan-Ségla) estates were once part of the same estate, belonging to Pierre de Rauzan along with Desmirail and Marquis de Terme. The Gassies section had been legally split between two parts of the family in 1763, but had continued to be run as one entity until 1785 when Catherine de Rauzan married Baron de Ségla, and took Rauzan-Ségla with her. The current owners, the Quié family arrived in 1946. Today the twins Anne-Françoise and Jean-Philippe run the estate, having taken over from their father Paul in 2001. Consultant is Eric Boissenot, with Nicolas Pejoux as technical director at the château.

Particularities of place:

Although the estate is located next to Rauzan-Ségla most of the plots are dotted along the plateaux of Margaux and Cantenac, at heights of 5 – 21 metres. Soils are gravel over clay-sand subsoils.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

Rauzan-Gassies is excellent value, delicate in style, with clear Margaux perfume and aromatics and a focus on brambly red fruits. The fermentation here takes place in stainless steel to focus on fruit purity. Rauzan-Gassies is a wine that is often ready to drink earlier than its second growth neighbours, and one that reminds you it is still possible to afford classified Bordeaux (although finding it might be tough, as it has become one of the most sought after labels in China). 1998 recorded an abundant harvest and mother nature gave both good quantity and quality. There were some great wines made that are still very much at full strength. At 25 years of age the 1998 Rauzan-Gassies is well in its tertiary phase of evolution, where the fruit has receded and aromas such as leather, smoke, tar, tobacco and earth come to the fore.

Tannins are still present, but mild. Pair with our leaner choices of dry-aged steaks, such as our Cape Grim Fillet or Rump. A side of mushrooms (if available) might just be the perfect connecting bridge between the savoury aspect of the wine and the steak.

For further vintage and producer selections from the commune of Margaux please refer to page 124.

PREMIUM WINES BY THE GLASS

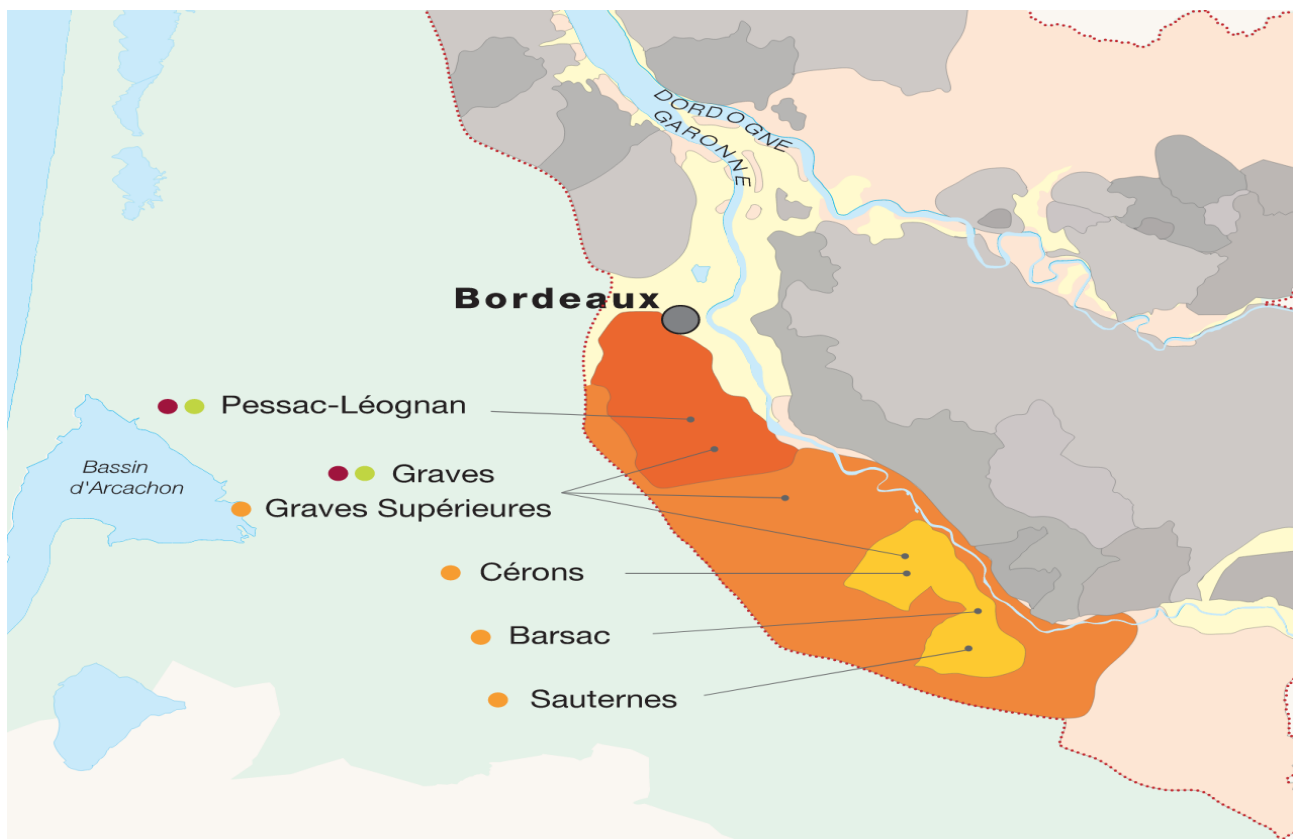

1953 GRAVES CLASSIFICATION

With the exception of Château Haut-Brion, the famous 1855 classification did not consider any other Bordeaux wine in what was then referred to as the Graves appellation. To rectify the situation, the producers in the Graves appellation came up with their own classification of the Graves area. Today, we refer to the region as Pessac-Léognan. The same criteria as for the 1855 classification was used to obtain the results for their own. One of the key determining factors they took into consideration was the selling price over a long period of time as well as considerations for the terroir and soils in Pessac-Léognan. In total, 22 different wines from 16 different châteaux were included in the classification, six châteaux that produce both white and red, seven châteaux that only produced red and three châteaux that only produced white. The last amendment to the classification took place in 1959 and in 2014 where two estates no longer make wine under their original labels (La Tour Haut-Brion & Laville-Haut-Brion).

1855 SAUTERNES CLASSIFICATION

It is often forgotten that when the wine brokers of Bordeaux compiled their list of the finest red wines in the Gironde for the 1855 Exposition Universelle de Paris, they also did one for the wines of Sauternes and Barsac at the same time. They used the same methodology, ranking the wines based on price and putting them into quality tiers of Classed Growths. In this case there were only two tiers, First and Second Growths, with 21 estates included. The wines of Sauternes were incredibly highly regarded at the time, and this is reflected in the classification of 9 First Growths, compared to just 4 for the reds, and of the creation of an über-category of 'Superior First Growth' for Chateau d'Yquem, of which no red wine was deemed worthy. Just as for the red wines, the number of classified château has increased since 1855, from 21 to 27. No official promotions or amendments have ever been made (à la Mouton), but several estates like 'Doisy', 'Rabaud' and 'Peyraguey' have been split into 2 or more châteaux; and one Second Growth, 'Pexoto', has gone to Sauternes heaven, although its vineyards are now part of Chateau Rabaud-Promis.

Superior 1st Growth (1) | 1st Growth (11) | 2nd Growth (15)

Close to an equal blend of Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, invariably oak-aged; their balanced, rich and polished feel is extremely drinkable when young, yet with enough structure to age beautifully. And that's without talking about their whites: the single major Bordeaux appellation to make serious, age-worthy dry whites and to recognise them with a classification. Pessac-Léognan soils are amongst the most widely varied in the region – which explains why both serious reds and whites can be produced. The gravel terraces of the Médoc are all here too with the main difference being that the elevation is slightly higher at this point.

2016 Latour-Martillac, Rouge

Grand Cru Classé

32 / 54 / 270

60% Merlot / 40% Cabernet Sauvignon

50ha, of which 40ha are dedicated to red and 10ha dedicated to white wine production. 60% of the entire red wine production goes into the 1st wine and 40% into the 2nd wine (Lagrange-Martillac, produced in 1986 in red and 1990 in white, both from young vines). Average annual production is 150,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

Another estate that hails from the 12th century when it began life as a fort built by the ancestors of Montesquieu. The first member of the Kressman family (current owners) was Edouard, who arrived in Bordeaux from the Baltics in 1858 and founded a wine merchant business just over a decade later. Edouard's son Alfred bought Latour-Martillac in 1930, although the family had been selling the wine for many decades. Brothers Tristan and Loïc Kressman are the 4th generation here, with their cousin Hervé Kressman also part of the management team, and sons Marc, Stanislas and Edouard increasingly active. Technical director is Valerie Vialard (with the estate since 1987, she was the first female technical director in the Graves). Consultant is Michel Rolland. Edouard Kressman, Loïc's son, is a négociant in China and has begun working as ambassador for the château in Asia.

Particularities of place:

The estate is located towards the south of the appellation in a wooded spot near to Château la Garde and Lespault-Martillac. The vineyard, which has deep gravels on limestone subsoil, has its own share of history. The oldest plot, called Gratte-cap and just 65 acres (263,000 square meters) in size, was grafted by Edouard Kressman in 1884 for his Graves Monopole white wine and is still used in the château's white wine today.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

This is a rich, confident wine that offers plenty of enjoyment – dark chocolate notes and ripe black-cherry flavours, with great consistency from vintage to vintage. 2016 is characterised by great acidities and tannins, along with big fruits, which means that this vintage is capable of aging for decades. The combination of juiciness and freshness in the wine should make for a great pairing partner with a number of beef options from our menu. Perhaps a thick Sirloin or Rump steak or even our Wagyu Brisket Pie.

For further vintage and producer selections from the commune of Pessac-Léognan please refer to page 125.

90% Sauvignon Blanc / 5% Sauvignon Gris / 5% Sémillon

78ha. 67ha are dedicated to red and 11ha to white wine production. 40% of the entire red wine production goes into the 1st wine and 60% into the 2nd wine (Le Petit Smith Haut Lafitte). The estate also makes a 3rd wine (although they see it as a separate label) Les Haut de Smith, from young vines and specific plots. Average annual production for the Bordeaux Blanc is 30,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

Smith-Haut Lafitte has a long history, starting in 1365 with Verrier du Boscq, followed by a branch of the royal Valois family who gave the fleur-de-lis on its coat of arms; then, in the 18th century, the Scottish sailor George Smith who gave the estate its name. And its owner in the 19th century, Lodi Martin Duffour-Dubergier, was the man who as mayor of Bordeaux signed off the 1855 classification (and selflessly didn't insist on including his own estate). The estate changed hands a couple of times and very much fell into despair in the mid 1950's until the Cathiard family took over in the 1990's, after early days as Olympic skiers (in the 1965 French team), then founding the 'Go Sport' chain of sportswear shops. Fabien Teitgen is technical director, with Michel Rolland and Stéphane Derencourt as consultants.

Particularities of place:

One of the first things that changed when the Cathiards arrived in the 1990's, was to stop all chemicals (fertilisers and weedkillers were previously used) and today the estate is entirely organic, certified as such in 2019 (although they call it bio-precision, for its use of drone and satellite technology). More than half the vineyard, on its gravel, sandy-gravel and limestone terroir, is farmed biodynamically – and is expected to be fully biodynamic within the next few years. Horses are used for ploughing, compost is made on site as well as their own barrels (in an on-site cooperage that they opened in 1995), and even produce their own rootstocks on a private island in the Garonne. They also implement innovative recycling programmes such as capturing carbon dioxide during fermentation and turning it into sodium bicarbonate (their efforts were rewarded with a talk at the United Nations' climate change conference in Paris in 2015).

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

Smith-Haut Lafitte's white wine wasn't included into the 1959 classification as there wasn't any white wine made at the estate at the time, only red. But there is little doubt that it would be included in any similar category today. It is a fantastic wine, age-worthy and a thoroughly delicious example of quality Pessac white. The 2017 vintage was a much better vintage for whites than it was for reds.

The whites are characterised by purity of fruit, excellent freshness and aromatic complexity, but there is also creaminess, depth and length of flavour that was achieved by utilising similar winemaking techniques as for Chardonnay. Grapes are hand-picked into small crates and pressed in an oxygen-free environment using inert gas to retain the grapes' aromatic potential, followed by fermentation in French oak barrels (50% new oak) and cold settling. The wine then spends 12 months on the lees with bâtonnage (lees stirring) in barrels (50% new and 50% previously used for one vintage) from their own on-site cooperage. A Sauvignon Blanc for oaked Chardonnay drinkers so to speak!

When it comes to food and wine pairing, White Bordeaux must be one of the most versatile white wines at the table, a great pairing partner with a variety of dishes, textures and proteins. Try with dishes from our fresh entrée selection such as Burrata, Tomato or Caesar Salad as well as from our hot section, Scallops, Roast Prawns, Calamari, Marrons, Lobster and a selection of fish from our charcoal oven. But our favourite must truly be our staple Rockpool dish, the Goat's Cheese Tortellini with Roast Prawns, Brown Butter and Pine Nuts.

Made by masochists, drunk by hedonists. These are the luscious, glorious, richly nuanced and complex sweet wines of Bordeaux. The result of a natural process of concentration from Botrytis cinerea, noble rot, these wines were the only whites to be recognised in the 1855 classification, were once feted worldwide and yet today are more often a side-note than the main event. Is there a way back for sweet Bordeaux?

Key Appellation Rules:

The wine must come from grapes with noble rot and must be harvested in successive waves as noble rot is reached, with a sugar richness of at least 221g/litre and a minimum of 12% abv post fermentation. The maximum yield allowed is 25hl/ha. This is one of the key differences with the sweet wines outside of Sauternes and Barsac, where higher yields of around 40hl/ha are allowed. Residual sugar in the finished wine must be at least 45g/litre. All harvesting must be done by hand (it is actually impossible to do it any other way).

2006 Rieussec, Fargues

1st Growth

39 / 50 / 495

90% Sémillon / 7% Sauvignon Blanc / 3% Muscadelle

85ha. 40% of the entire sweet wine production goes into the 1st wine and 60% into the 2nd wine (Les Carmes de Rieussec). The previous owner Albert Vuillier first introduced a 2nd wine 'Clos Labère' in 1973 and renamed it 'Carmes de Rieussec' in 2002. The estate also makes a dry white 'R de Rieussec', which usually takes 20-30% of overall production. Average annual production is 72,000 bottles.

History of the estate:

Owned by Domaines Barons de Rothschild (Lafite) since 1984, headed until 2018 by Baron Eric de Rothschild and now by his daughter Saskia de Rothschild. Rieussec was owned by the Carmelite convent of Notre-Dame de Langan from the 17th century (the second wine Les Carmes is named in their honour). Then came the French Revolution and confiscation. The convent was turned into fermentation rooms and cellars in 1791, at which point Jean-Baptiste Mareilhac, who would become mayor of Bordeaux, bought the property (he must have been something of an opportunist, as he also acquired Château la Louvière, another Revolutionary confiscation from a monastic order).

Particularities of place:

Rieussec lies just below Y'quem, with their vineyards touch much of the perimeter, almost entirely across the commune of Fargues, but with a small plot in Sauternes. The land, as with Y'quem, is high here, reaching 75 metres above sea level. There are 7,500 vines grown per ha (a minimum of 6,500 vines per ha are stipulated by law) on gravel over sandy-clay soils. There are no sorting tables in the winery as all selection is carried out in the vineyard.

Style, Vintage & Food Match:

Rieussec is easily one of the most balanced, succulent and fresh of all Sauternes. The 2006 vintage in Sauternes was a difficult vintage but ultimately rewarding, instilling a rich and ripe character into the wines. Beautiful moderate golden colour with hints of orange, honeysuckle, acacia and candied fruit marry subtly in the mouth and extend into a long, but refreshing finish.

In the cellars, fermentation took place in barrel, and aged between 18-24 months in around 55% new oak. All barrels are produced by Domaines Barons de Rothschild's own cooperage up in Pauillac.

Pairing sweet wine from Bordeaux with food doesn't have to stop with cheese and desserts, there are a variety of foods that sweet Bordeaux pair exceptionally well with. Slow-cooked meats are a great match, where the wine can act like a mustard-honey glaze or fruit chutney, providing a fruit and spice complement in the glass. Another classic pairing from the 19th century that we have forgotten about is briny oysters, whose saltiness is countered by the sweet wine.
